Love Revolution empowers individuals to embody their baptismal promises so that they grow in how they love God and love neighbor. It reframes ministry to be grounded in relationships and listening. Tools are provided to teach congregations how to develop deeper relationships and to think creatively about ministry in their community. Love Revolution staff accompany congregations along the way and when a congregation is ready to launch a new ministry, a grant of $5,000 is given to carry out this new vision.

Leadership Group

Each congregation identifies a small group of committed lay people plus the pastor who will gather with other leadership groups to form a learning community.

Leadership Group Commitments

- Participate in four gatherings and one weekend retreat with other congregational leadership groups over two years
- Meet monthly with coach/mentor
- Share new learnings with congregation regularly
- Develop plan and budget for new ministry

Love Revolution Commitments

- Create and implement learning community experiences (single days, retreats, coaching, mentoring)
- Provide tools to build relationships, examine biases, and inspire creative ministry
- Support congregational efforts with supplemental material
- Grant money to implement new ministry
